Give a guy a burger flipper, stand him in front of a grill, and all of a sudden he's a pro - even if he previously couldn't find his way to the kitchen. No offense to men who cook, but there's something about the great outdoors that makes cooks of people who otherwise need a recipe to boil water.

So, with the end of summer approaching, plan one last blow-out BBQ for Labor Day. Turn the grill over to the pseudo maestro and make the rest of the party something special.
